PREFACE.

From the frequent inquiries coming to me concerning the nature of a convenient manual like the following, I could not mistake the suggestion, that a book of this kind was a great desideratum. By the advice of a few friends, whom I consulted regarding this subject, and from the increasing conviction that the book was positively needed, I felt encouraged to undertake the work, although the task of writing such a book seemed to me not altogether without difficulty. The success of my "Improved Method and Complete Manual for the Systematic and Practical Study of the German Language," however, filled me with confidence, giving me also the sure and true basis for the practical construction of this work. In regard to the various parts of the book, much labor was necessary for the information I desired to present, and to what extent this had to be done, can be judged from the manifold contents of the book, demonstrating also that the parts and subjects treated, were what the scope of such a work seemed to demand. The German and English indexes alone contain over twenty thousand words. For accurate and convenient reference I have added, at the close of the book, the complete schedule of declensions and list of irregular verbs of my German Grammar. The reason for making this addition arose from the conviction that if persons studying or having studied the German Language, on the one hand, can classify a noun at sight by looking at the schedule of the terminations of each declension, in as much as there are four different classes of declensions in German, after which the nouns must be declined, wherefore every representative noun in this work has attached the number of the respective class of declension, to which it belongs; and on the other hand such persons also know the irregular verbs and can readily refer by looking at the schedules of conjugations of these verbs, to the various changes they undergo in the process of conjugation in the various tenses, etc., they certainly have overcome two of the foremost difficulties in the study of this language. To study a language effectively and successfully is to study its various parts of speech. Though these are nominally the same in German as in English, there is still a vast difference in the extent of the study these various parts require in order to become familiar with them for ready comprehension in reading and in speaking the language. The study of the German articles, for instance, the first of the ten parts of speech, requires infinitely more study in German than in English, because in English there is but one article for the three genders, masculine, feminine and neuter, but in German every gender has a special article which is declined differently in each of the four cases, Nominative, Genitive, Dative and Accusative in the singular. There are besides many definite words standing often in the place of the definite articles, declined like these, and many indefinite words standing often in place of the indefinite articles, declined like these in the singular, but like the definite articles in the plural. To study thoroughly and successfully these and other complicated and difficult parts of speech in the German Language cannot be accomplished by so-called easy-phrase-object-picture-methods. There must be faithful and persistent study with the aid of a thorough grammar, I am frank to say, like mine, not only the latest, but also the most complete in the market. And the pronunciation of the words of the German Language can only be acquired from the lips of a competent teacher, a native German. It cannot be taught by parrot-method or burlesque sound-imitation in letters and words having no real existence and hanging merely like spiderwebs in the mind, etc.

Hoping and trusting that the book will fulfill the purpose for which it is designed, I solicit the favorable consideration of every physician and student desiring to familiarize themselves with the vast treasures of the German Medical Terminology, through the unusually numerous compounds, the special basis of this work in the German Medical Literature.

PHILADELPHIA. HENRY LOSCH.

PART FIRST.

Simple and Compound Medical Terms Systematized.

A. Man Considered Generically.

§ 1. Construction of Compounds (Komposita, zusammengesetzte Wörter).

Though a simple word or term is easily understood, it needs to be said that a compound consists, either in several nominatives put together, or the first word of the compound, generally appearing in the genitive form (singular or plural), to which one or several words in the nominative form adhere, is joined to the root of the last word of the compound which contains the rootsyllable from which it is derived, e. g.

1* Brust-schlüsselbein-zitzenfortsatz-muskel-schwund, m, 1.,† (literally : breast-clavicle-mastoid process-muscle atrophy) i. e. atrophy of the sterno-cleido-mastoid muscle.—The rootword is Schwund, m. 1. atrophy (from v. ir. schwinden, to diminish, shrink).

2 Augen-muskel-lähmung, f. paralysis of the muscle of the eye ; Lähmung, f. (from lähmen, to paralyze) is the rootword.

3 Bacillen-Lehre, f. (from Bacillen, bacilli, and Lehre, f. doctrine) means: Bacteriology.

4 Lebens-anfang, m. 1. (from Leben, n. 1. life, in the genitive form, and Anfang, m. 1. beginning (from v. ir. anfangen, to begin) means: beginning of life, etc.

In compound words formed of nouns, adjectives, adverbs, etc., the entire word becomes an adjective, e. g.:

5 bacillen-haltend, adj. (from Bacillen, in the nominative form, plural, and haltend, adj. (from v. ir. halten, to hold) means: bacilli-containing.

6 lebens-voll, adj. (from Leben, life, gen. sing. and voll, adj. full) means: full of life.

Familiarity, therefore, with the rootword or the last word in compounds, is absolutely necessary for the full understanding of German Medical literature, since so unusually many compound words are used.

§ 2. Generic Term Man.

The generic name (Gattungsname, m. 2.) regarding the 7 Art, f. kind, sort, race, sex, species of a man, as a human being (menschliches Wesen, n. 2.) is:

8 Mensch, m. 3. man, and applies to any man, e. g.:

* These numbers correspond with the numbers of the respective words in the dictionaries for easy reference.

† m. for masculine is attached to masculine nouns, f. for feminine and n. for neuter nouns. The number attached to a noun indicates the form or class of declension, to which it belongs. Feminine nouns are not numbered. because all belong to the fourth class of declensions. See schedule of declensions at the close.

9 Arzt, m. 1. (doctor. physician.
10 Ärztin, f. female physician.
11 Doktor, m. 2. doctor.
12 Chirurg, m. 3. } surgeon, etc.

PART THIRD.

Dialogues.

§ 34. 1. Beim ersten Besuch eines Arztes.

At the first visit of a physician.

Doktor. Guten Morgen--Tag--Nachmittag—Abend, mein Herr N., meine Dame (Frau) N., mein Fräulein N. Ich musz Sie um Entschuldigung bitten, dasz ich nicht sogleich kam, da ich nicht zu Hause war, als Sie für mich sandten (or schickten). Was fehlt Ihnen?

Good morning—day—afternoon—evening, Mr. N., Mrs. (Madam) N., Miss N. I must beg your pardon (I beg you to excuse me) for not coming directly, as I was not at home (being not at home), when you sent for me. Are you sick? What ails you? What's the matter?

Patient. Ich bin nicht gesund. Mir ist durchaus nicht wohl. Ich fühle sehr unwohl.

I am not well. I am not at all well. I feel very unwell—ill—sick.

Dok. Seit waun sind Sie unwohl?

How long have you been ill—sick—unwell?

Pat. Seit vorgestern Abend.

Since day before yesterday in the evening.

Dok. Was war der Anfang Ihres Unwohlseins—Ihrer Krankheit?

What was the beginning of your sickness?

Pat. Es begann mit Kopfweh and Frösteln (Fieberschauer).

It began with head-ache and shivering—a chill.

Dok. Wie fühlen Sie jetzt—gegenwärtig?

How are you feeling at present?

Pat. Ich bin, ich weisz nicht, wie ich's nennen soll, ungewöhnlich schwach, and kraftlos in allen meinen Gliedern.

I am, I know not how I shall call it, unusually weak and powerless in all my limbs.

Dok. Ist es Ihnen schwindelig, oder haben Sie nur Kopfweh?

Do you feel giddy (dizzy), or have you only head-ache.

Pat. Es ist mir nicht schwindelig, aber ich fühle zuweilen grosze Übelkeit, nahe zum Erbrechen.

I do not feel giddy, but I have sometimes a very disagreeable nauseating feeling.

Dok. Wie ist Ihr Appetit?

How is your appetite?

Pat. Mein Appetit ist sehr gering. Ich kann beinahe nichts essen, aber ich habe beständig groszen Durst.

I have but little appetite. I can scarcely eat anything, but I have always great thirst.

Dok. Lassen Sie mich Ihren Puls fühlen und Ihre Zunge besehen.—Ihr Puls ist etwas--ziemlich fieberhaft und Ihre belegte Zunge zeigt an, dasz Ihr Magen aus der Ordnung ist—nicht ist, wie er sein soll—verdorben ist.

Let me feel your pulse and look at your tongue. Your pulse is somewhat—tolerably—feverish, and your coated tongue indicates that your stomach is out of order—is not what it should be—is deranged.

Dok. Wie ist Ihr Schlaf?

How is your sleep?

Pat. Ich kann nur wenig schlafen, und meine Ruhe ist oftmals durch Träume gestört.

I can but little sleep, and my rest is often disturbed by dreams.

Dok. Gemäsz der Symptome (Merkmale) müssen Sie etwas Arznei gebrauchen, und am besten ist es, dasz Sie zu Bette gehen und sich ganz ruhig verhalten, wenigstens für eine kurze Zeit. Hier, lassen Sie diese Arznei bereiten, oder—nehmen Sie diese Arznei—und brauchen, oder—n e h m e n—S i e davon—jede Stunde—oder alle zwei Stunden—einen Eszlöffel voll, bis die Arznei wirkt, and dann, wann ich wieder komme, wollen wir weiter sehen, was zu thun ist.

According to the symptoms you must use some medicine, and it is the best that you go to bed and keep quiet, at least for a short time. Here, get this medicine prepared, and use—or take a tablespoonful of it every hour—or every two hours, until it operates, and then, when I come again, we will see what further is to be done.

Pat. Darf ich etwas essen, oder musz ich nüchtern bleiben.

May I eat something, or must I remain jejune—on an empty stomach?

Dok. Vorderhand essen Sie gar nichts, bleiben Sie ruhig im Bette liegen, and sehen Sie zu, dasz Sie sich nicht erkälten—Ich werde morgen früh wieder kommen, and in der Hoffnung, dasz Sie besser sein werden, verabschiede ich mich für heute.

At present do not eat anything, stay quietly in bed, and take care not to catch cold. I'll call again to-morrow morning, and in the hope that you will be better. I bid you good-bye for to-day.

2. Beim zweiten Besuch eines Arztes.

At the second visit of a physician.

Dok. Wie befinden Sie sich heute? Wie fühlen Sie heute? Ist Ihr Zustand schlimmer, schlechter, besser?

How are you to-day? How do you feel to-day? Is your condition worse or better?

Pat. Es scheint nicht besser—nicht viel besser zu gehen. Ich habe noch dasselbe Kopfweh, and obgleich die Arznei sehr gut gewirkt hat-ich muszte dreimal zu Stuhle gehen—so finde ich doch wenig Erleichterung, und meine Kräfte scheinen mich gänzlich zu verlassen.

I do not seem to be much better. I have still the same headache, and although the medicine has well operated, I was obliged to go to stool three times, I find not much relief, and my strength seems to leave me entirely.

Dok. Haben Sie einen Schmerz, Schmerzen, in Ihrer Seite, und wenn so, währt er, währen sie—lange, oder ist er—sind sie—nur von kurzer Dauer?

Have you pain, or pains in your side, and if so, does it, do they, continue long, or is it, are they, only of a short duration?

Pat. Ja, ich habe einen scharfen Schmerz in meiner Seite, besonders wann ich einen langen Atem ziehe.

Yes, sir, I have a sharp pain in my side, especially if I draw a long breath.

Dok. Haben Sie Schmerzen im Rücken?

Have you pains in your back?

Pat. Nicht besonders im Rücken, ich fühle Schmerzen beinahe überall.

Not especially in the back, I feel pains almost all over.

Dok. Warum sind Sie no niedergeschlagen?

Why are you so depressed?

Pat. Es scheint, Sie wissen nicht wie krank ich bin und wie viel ich leide.

It seems you do not know how sick I am and how much I suffer.

Dok. Allerdings, ich sehe wohl, dasz Sie sehr krank sind, und es ist mir nicht unbewuszt, dasz Sie auch Schmerzen haben, aber Sie sollten deshalb nicht so verstimmt sein, da Ihre Krankheit im jetzigen oder gegenwärtigen Zustande nicht gefährlich ist.

Certainly, I see indeed that you are very sick, and I am conscious—well aware—of the fact that you have also pains, but you should therefore not be so low-spirited, since your sickness in its present stage is not dangerous.

Pat. Denken Sie, dasz Aussicht vorhanden ist, dasz ich wieder gesund werde?

Do you think that there is a chance for my recovery.

Dok. Gewiszlich! Sie werden bald genesen, wenn Sie vorsichtig sind und Ihre Arznei pünktlich gebrauchen—einnehmen.

Assuredly! you will soon recover—convalesce, if you are careful and use—take your medicine regularly.

Pat. Was für eine Medizin werden Sie mir geben? Ich ziehe etwas Flüssiges den Pillen und Pulvern vor, da es mir schwer wird diese zu verschlucken.

What kind of medicine will you give me? I prefer some liquid medicine to pills and powders, which I find difficult to swallow.

Dok. Den Schmerz in der Seite zu lindern, und zur Erleichterung des Atems, gebrauchen Sie die Salbe, die ich Ihnen verschrieben habe, indem Sie die Seite und die Brust fleiszig damit einreiben.

To alleviate the pain in your side, and to ease your respiration, you must use the ointment (linament) I prescribed for you, rubbing diligently your side and breast therewith.

Pat. Was würden Sie mir raten zu essen, um wieder zu Kräften zu kommen-gelangen, da ich so sehr ermattet bin. Welche Diät musz—soll ich beobachten?

What would you advise me to eat in order to gain strength, as I am so very weak—What diet must I—should I observe?

Dok. Sie können zuerst irgend eine leicht verdauliche Speise genieszen, zum Beispiel: Fleisch-oder Hühnerbrühe, Grütze, geröstete Brotschnitte, erweicht in Milch, und dergleichen; and dann, ein wenig später, stärkere Nahrung, gänzlich gemäsz dem Verlangen eines gröszeren Appetits.

You can take at first any light food which is easily digested, e. g. skimmed beef or chicken-broth, gruel, milk-toast, and the like; and then, after a while, stronger food, wholly according to the demand of an increased appetite.

Pat. Kommen Sie morgen wieder, Herr Doktor; ich sehne mich sehr, so bald wie möglich wieder gesund zu werden.

Doctor, come again to-morrow; I am very anxious—or I long very much to become well again as soon as possible.

Dok. Es gibt nichts Ihre baldige Genesung zu verhindern, so viel ich nun sehen kann, vorausgesetzt, dasz nichts weiter geschieht, was jetzt nicht zu ersehen ist, und was ich nicht erwarte.

There is nothing to hinder your speedy recovery, so far as I can see now, provided nothing further happens—occurs—which at present cannot be forseen, and which I do not expect.

3. Beim dritten Besuch eines Arztes.

At the third visit of a physician.

Dok. Wie geht es? Wie befinden Sie sich heute?

How do you do to-day?

Pat. Ich befinde mich viel besser, bei weitem besser, als gestern.

I am much better, I thank you—by far better to-day than yesterday.

Dok. Wie steht's mit dem Kopfweh?

How is it with the head-ache?

Pat. Ich habe heute keine Kopfschmerzen, und ich fühle viel

I have no pain—pains—in my head to-day, and I feel much refreshed frischer, indem ich letzte Nacht ziemlich gut geschlafen habe.

Dok. Wie verhält es sich mit dem Schmerz—mit den Schmerzen—in der Seite? Sie scheinen viel freier—bei weitem besser—zu atmen. Haben Sie die Salbe angewandt? Ich kann sehen—sehr wohl wahrnehmen, d a s z d i e Medizin, welche ich Ihnen verschrieben habe, gute Wirkung gethan hat, und es freut mich sehr Sie bedeutend besser zu finden.

Pat. Der Schmerz in meiner Seite verliert sich allmählich—hat sich gänzlich verloren—und ich finde keine—gar keine Schwierigkeit zu atmen.

Dok. Sie fühlen sich demnach sehr erleichtert. Ihre Kräfte werden sich, ohne Zweifel, bald vermehren, sobald das Fieber ganz—gänzlich gebrochen sein wird.

Pat. Es scheint mir, dasz ich noch Fieber haben musz, indem ich immer noch Durst habe.

Dok. Nehmen Sie von der Arznei, welche ich Ihnen jetzt verschreibe, alle zwei Stunden einen halben Thee-löffel voll, oder vier bis fünf von diesen Kügelchen, and wie ich hoffe, wird sich das Fieber bald legen, und den Durst wird etwas Limenade, oder etwas Himbeerenessig, gemischt mit ein wenig Wasser, stillen.

Pat. Wie lange musz ich noch im Bette bleiben? Ich möchte das Bett gar zu gern verlassen.

Dok. Bleiben Sie nur noch heute ruhig im Bett. Sie sind noch zu schwach zum Aufstehen. Wenn Sie morgen stârker fühlen, so mögen Sie das Bett verlassen, wenigstens für eine kurze Zeit.

Pat. Der üble Geschmack in meinem Munde hat sich verloren, und es scheint, dasz mein Appetit sich vermehrt hat. Erlauben Sie mir, Herr Doktor, zu essen, was ich liebe, oder musz ich immer noch eine besondere Diät beobachten?

Dok. Sie müssen noch nicht essen, was Sie wollen, and namentlich müssen Sie alle fetten und sauren Speisen vermeiden, and soviel als möglich sich allein auf Mehlspeisen beschränken, and nur wenig Gemüse essen.

since I have slept pretty well last night.

How is it with the pain—pains—in your side? You appear to breathe much easier—by far better—Did you use the ointment? I can see—I observe very well—that the medicine which I prescribed for you, has done good work, and I am very glad to find you so much better.

The pain in my side—gradually disappears—is entirely gone—and I have no difficulty in breathing.

You feel therefore greatly relieved; your strength, doubtless will become increased as soon as your fever shall be broken entirely.

It seems to me that I must still have fever, since I am always thirsty.

Take of the medicine, which I now prescribe for you, half a tea-spoon full every two hours, or from four to five of these lozenges, and I hope the fever will soon be reduced, and your thirst will be relieved by lemonade or by raspberry syrup, mixed with some water.

How long must I still remain in bed? I would like very much to leave the bed.

Remain only still to-day quietly in bed; you are yet too weak to leave your bed. If you are stronger to-morrow, you may get up, at least for a short time.

The bitter taste in my mouth has left me and it seems that my appetite is increasing; do you allow me, doctor, to eat what I like, or must I still restrict myself to a special diet?

You must not yet eat what you like, but avoid in particular all fatty and sour food, and confine yourself, as much as possible, to farinaceous substances and eat but few vegetables.

Pat. Darf ich gar kein Fleisch auch kein kaltes Fleisch essen?

Dok. Sie können Fleisch-und Hühnerbrühe and dergleichen öfters genieszen, und auch etwas Hammelfleisch—oder Hammelsrippchen, and etwas Huhn, und gebratene Kartoffeln, and dürres, gekochtes Obst und Reis, etc.

Pat. Darf ich Kaffee und Thee bei den Mahlzeiten und sonst auch während des Tages Wasser mit Eis trinken?

Dok. Trinken Sie Ihren Kaffee und Thee nur mäszig stark, und trinken Sie nur wenig Eiswasser auf ein mal. Ihre Genesung is sicher, aber es wird einige Zeit nehmen, bis Sie wieder ganz gesund werden sein. Eine Luftveränderung—oder Aufenthalt im Lande für einige Wochen—Monate, würde Ihrer Gesundheit ungemein zuträglich sein, etc.

Must I eat no meat at all, not even cold meat?

You can often take as food meat or chicken-broth and the like, and some boiled or roasted chicken or mutton, or mutton-chops and roasted potatoes, and cooked dried fruit and rice, etc.

May I drink at meals coffee and tea and also ice-water during the day?

Drink your coffee and tea only moderately strong and drink but little ice-water at one time. Your convalescence is sure, but it will take some time, till you will be entirely well. A change of air—or a stay in the country for several weeks or months, would be uncommonly beneficial for your health, or would be a great benefit to your health, etc.

TESTIMONIALS.

"Among many this work will, doubtless, be conspicuous for its clear and concise form."—Philadelphia Ledger.

"It is a pleasure to praise this work. The volume is at once a grammar, reader and dictionary."—Philadelphia Press.

"This work is what its comprehensive title claims for it. It can be heartily commended to teachers and to students for self-instruction."—Philadelphia Times.

"This work bears the impress of the scholar and the philologist and evidences a clear understanding of the structure of the German language as well as of its character and spirit."—Philadelphia Record.

"All complicated subjects are presented comprehensively, and ample exercises for reading, translation and conversation, and well-chosen poetry follow each lesson."—New York Publishers' Weekly.

"More scientific than other methods. The subjects are very clearly presented, the syntax deserves special mention for its completeness."—National Baptist, Philadelphia.

"This seems to be a well-arranged and useful volume."—New York Sun.

"The promise of the title-page and preface has been well kept. The grammatical rules are succinct and clear, the examples and exercises are good, and the many extracts in prose and poetry are well selected. The author is evidently an accomplished German scholar."—The Critic, New York.

"This work, which I have used and studied carefully, is very complete and clear. Each lesson leads up to the following one, and the exercises impress the rules and words indelibly upon the mind."—J. NICHOLAS MITCHELL, M. D. (Prof.), Philadelphia.

"This work is the best help that I have had in the study of this language."—REV. ROBERT S. DEBOW, PH. D., Instructor in Haverford College.

"The subjects in this compact and neatly arranged work are developed in a natural and progressive order, interspersed with brief vocabularies and exercises. The intricacies and complexities of German grammar are presented in very much simplified forms, and altogether the work strikes us as being made on a sound method, thoroughly, and with competent knowledge of the language and of the best methods of teaching and learning it."—Independent, New York.

In its issue of August 3d, 1893, the Independent, New York, speaks of the second edition thus: "This is a second edition revised and enlarged generally. The chief change is the introduction throughout the work of the new Official Orthography adopted by the German governments and now in general use in Germany. The excellent practical features noticed by us in the first edition are preserved in this, while it has gained both in fullness and systematic arrangement. The rules and tabulations are worked out in a clean and simple manner. Needless matter is cut away and nothing retained which will in any way retard the student's progress or confuse his mind. The success of the first edition has been sufficient to show the practical usefulness of the work."

The Public Ledger of Philadelphia, in one of its recent issues, in regard to the second edition, says: "This book comprises a grammar, reader and dictionary in one volume. Dr. Losch is a distinguished and successful teacher here in Philadelphia of his native language, and has applied his scientific training to developing a good manual for the rich and flexible Deutsche Sprache. As all doctors now who wish to keep up with the sciences must be able to read German, it is not surprising that many of the numerous testimonials to the ease and pleasure derived from Losch's system come from medical practitioners. German students, however, of merely literary or linguistic ambitions, will find in Losch's book a competent and comprehensive guide. His methods are without confusion, and his declensions and conjugations lead directly to the insight of structural German. The chief change to be noted in this edition is the use throughout the book of the new official orthography adopted by the German governments and in general use throughout Germany."

Rev. Dr. John S. Stahr, President of Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa., says: "I have examined Dr. Henry Losch's 'Improved Method and Complete Manual for the Study of the German Language' with some care, and I am ready to say that I am well pleased with it. The arrangement of the matter, the copious exercises and selections, and the skillful exhibition of the principles of Syntax make it a valuable aid to the study of this noble language. This single volume, well mastered, will serve to give the learner a very fair knowledge of the language, not only in theory, but also in practice."

Rev. P. F. Fogarty, of Tamaqua, Pa., says: "I regard this Grammar as a most excellent treatise on the subject."
